Your arts guild needs you!

The redevelopment of Inverclyde's theatre and arts centre – the Arts Guild – has been recognised by the Scottish Arts Council as one of six truly outstanding initiatives in Scotland, and we have been offered £2.7 million of Lottery money towards the cost of the project.

This confirms the Arts Council's view of the Guild's importance both to the people of Inverclyde and to the wider arts community.

100,000 people of all ages use the Guild every year: actors, musicians, dancers, photographers, writers, visual artists. Most weekends our theatre is packed with an audience enjoying a good night out.

In its day the Guild was a model for similar developments throughout the country, but our building is now 120 years old and it is time to transform it into a vibrant, purpose-built arts complex fit for the 21st century.

Despite the generous sum of money on offer, if the Guild is to become a centre of excellence for the arts in Inverclyde we still face the challenging task of raising £2.7 million matching funding.

We value your help in achieving this vision and need you to consider how you can play your part in this exciting project that will deliver...

-  Improved comfort and facilities in the main auditorium, with full disabled access
-  A vibrant and adaptable studio theatre for more intimate performances, comedy, jazz and cabaret
-  Purpose-built rehearsal rooms for music, theatre, dance or for private meetings
-  A welcoming café and bar with space for live entertainment

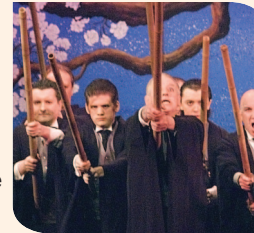

Your help will make this happen!
